Dear Allen:

Just a note to say that I have read in full your address in New Orleans on THE CHALLENGE OF SOVIET POWER.

This runs exactly down the line of my thinking. I think you are doing a splendid job not only in the assessment of our position but also in seeking to identify to the American people the real issues that we face.

As you know, it is my own feeling that the real issue in this country, over the remainder of this century at least, is the application of our competence and resources to the issue of survival. Quite obviously not in whole but in sufficiency to ensure survival. How we get that lone thought across to the great body of the American people is one of the great tests of a Democracy.

I will try to reach you when I am next in Washington and you know I enjoy our association.

Sincerely,

Frank

Frank Pace, Jr.
